Kit Carson Electric Cooperative Awards Holy Cross Medical Center $10,000

"Times have been tough, but Taos has come together in extraordinary ways. Holy Cross Hospital has been a leader through the pandemic, but our efforts have been made much easier with help from our amazing community. Luis Reyes from Kit Carson Electric Cooperative was able to help Holy Cross Medical Center get access to $10,000 in grant funding to use towards personal protective equipment to protect our staff and hardware to help outfit our offices with tele-medicine equipment so that we can provide remote care for our patients. Thank you Luis and Kit Carson Electric Cooperative!"

-Holy Cross Medical Center-

We're still here serving you. We are committed to offering our communities the reliable services needed to help get through today's challenges.

Sincerely,

Luis A. Reyes Jr., CEO

KCI Offers Free Broadband Connections & Wireless Router to Struggling Students

For Monet Winters, the COVID-19 pandemic created a lot of hurdles for her to complete eighth grade at Santa Fe Indian School.

With school buildings closed in March and no reliable internet service at her home in Taos Pueblo Monet waited for large paper packets of schoolwork from her teachers to arrive by mail.

The 13-year-old tried to log on with her mother's phone or Wi-Fi at her grandmother's house but was hampered by spotty service, distractions and data limits.

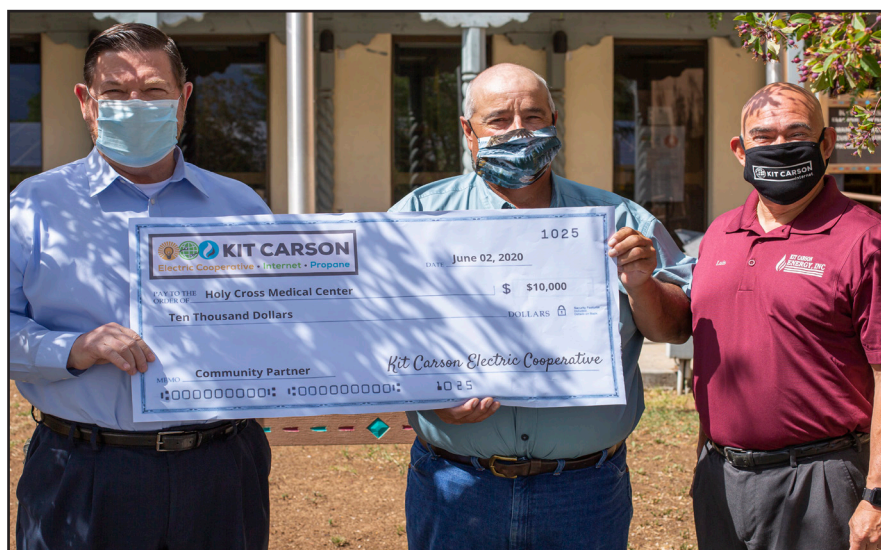

"It was pretty challenging," said Monet. "I wasn't able to do my school work online. I was struggling. Working with the five school districts in its service territory, the Taos-based co-op's broadband division identified students in need and provided free internet connections to more than 150 homes, including 14 on tribal land.

Now, Monet says she enjoys "being able to reach my classes online and doing Zoom with my teachers. I'm able to reach sites faster and able to do my work without having to constantly look for places to do it. I can do it right here in my home." The families pay $24.95 a month for basic broadband service, but the connection and wireless router were free.
